INDIANA.

A Young Woman Driven to Suicide by Affliction in Her Family.

Special to the Indianapolis Journal.

NEW ALBANY, Aug. 18.—A story that reads like a chapter from some gloomy Oriental tale is that contained in the history of the Fallow family, of Paoli. It is brought out by the strikingly sad suicide of Miss Martha Fallow, who killed her mother good-bye, yesterday afternoon, and then left her home to deliberately plunge in the river and end her life. While the young woman had suffered intense melancholy from many recent bereavements, her mind was strong, and that she should drown herself could not have been foreseen. She labored under a delusion, presentiment, or some occult influence—call it what you will—akin to hypnosis, perhaps, believing that herself and the few remaining members of the Fallow household were doomed to death, pursued by a relentless vengeance which had already removed no less than three of her kindred.

She was devoutly religious and entertained the belief that all earthly afflictions were a direct punishment for some transgression. Hence, when some months ago one of her four sisters was crippled for life in a railroad accident, she felt that it was a penalty. Shortly afterward her father sickened and died, and before two weeks of mourning had passed two of her sisters had been laid in their graves. In the meantime the fourth sister had been sinking rapidly with consumption, and the weight of all this sorrow was more than Miss Fallow could endure. Without any written explanation it is supposed that she could not bear to wait and see her sick sister taken from her. But if she could not wait here for the dreaded event she had not long to wait on the other shore, for when the news of her sister's death reached home the consumptive girl shuddered and passed away within a few hours, leaving those at home to mourn a doubly sad event.

While pulling out of Bloomington a journal of the third car, in which the engine broke and the train began to pile up. Ferguson tried to save himself by jumping, but was caught and crushed in a shocking manner. His right leg was mangled and will have to be amputated. He was also injured internally, and it is feared that the accident will cost him his life. He was taken to a hotel in Lafayette, and medical aid summoned. As soon as Judge Ferguson received the telegram, he left for the scene of the accident. At 2 o'clock this morning, Judge Ferguson received a message from her husband, urging her to go to Lafayette immediately. He is a married man and very popular among his fellow-railroad workers.

A CAT'S STRANGE FANCY.

She Adopts a Family of Rats, Which Afterwards Kill Their Foster-Mother.

BRUNSON, S. C., Aug. 18.—Randolph Hyde, of this town, relates a story which is perhaps without precedent, of a cat owned by him and her adoption of a family of young rats, to which was recently added a tragical and strange sequel. Puss had been deprived of her kittens and exhibited unusual grief. After some days she appeared to be reconciled to their loss, but it was soon discovered that she had consorted herself with half a dozen newly-born rats, which she had found in an out-house and which she was suckling. It is probable that she had killed the mother before taking them in her care.

She continued to nurse them for some weeks, exhibiting the greatest devotion to them and apparently never seeming to realize that they were not her own offspring. Mr. Hyde was very proud of the strange cat, and he and his family had many visits his home to see puss suckling her adopted children.

Two men who took an unexpected turn, and the cat paid with her life for her singular fancy. A laborer on the place working in the out-house where the rats had been found, thrust a stick all a blow at one of the rodents which came too violent in its play, and immediately the vicious creature flew at its foster-mother, and fastening its teeth in her throat drew the blood. This appeared to excite the others, who joined in the attack with every appearance of fury.

The men ran to the rescue, and with a stick finally succeeded in beating off the rats, which, however, resisted fiercely. The cat was terribly bitten and soon bled to death. The rats several times attempted to return and worry the body, and were finally killed.

Mortimer was placed under bond before Commissioner of the Prisoners and confident he can acquire himself of any wrong-doing in connection with the management of the association, and that his son, Louis F. Mortimer, will return to Chicago and straighten out any irregularities that may at this time appear to exist. "I gave myself up for the purpose of showing that there has been no fraud on my part," said Mr. Mortimer, "and I am positive the books will show that every penny we took in was used legitimately. Although I was assured that I did not handle any of the money, my son taking care of that. We took in $80,000 since the association was organized, placed fifteen different loans and sold $1,000 shares of stock, and my son received 15 cents commission for every share sold, and that is all he did receive. We have the $80,000 in the bank, and was very heavy, and then we spent enormous sums in advertising. HARMONY IN PENNSYLVANIA

Senator Quay and C. L. Magee Meet Each Other for the First Time in Years.

Conference Over Candidates Before To-Day's Convention—What the Platform May Contain—Call for a Meeting of Real Farmers.

HARRISBURG, Pa., Aug. 18.—The State Republican convention will be held here to-morrow. Already all the politicians of note are on the ground. An interesting event of the day was an apparently friendly conference between Senator Quay and C. L. Magee, the Pittsburgh political leader. These two prominent politicians, once firm friends, have been strangers for a number of years, their differences growing out of the campaign of 1888. Their coming together was, therefore, a great surprise to the politicians gathered here, and much interest was manifested as to the result of the conference.

Mr. Magee submitted to an interview after the conference and talked freely to the reporters. He said he and Mr. Quay had met at the request of State Senator Mylin, who is a candidate for Auditor-general. They discussed the situation. Mr. Magee says that both expressed themselves freely as to their preference. Mr. Magee said he would favor the nomination of Senator Mylin for Auditor-general and John W. Morris for State Treasurer. Mr. Quay is reported by Mr. Magee to have expressed a willingness to let the convention decide for itself who should be the candidates.

Mr. Magee said that this meeting with Mr. Quay had nothing whatever to do with the future, that they conferred merely on the situation with reference to the present. The platform to be adopted to-morrow will, it is learned from a trustworthy source, contain a plank strongly endorsing Secretary Blaine as the most available candidate for Governor in 1892. Mr. Quay will be also endorsed in connection with the latter the Harrison administration will be mildly commended. Mr. Wanamaker's administration of the Postoffice Department will be eulogized. The platform will favor the free coinage of silver to the extent of taking care of the product of American mines. A tariff on foreign silver sufficient to exclude it from competition with the native metal will be advocated. The Republic of Philadelphia will be commended for unearthing and prosecuting the Bardeley steel.

It was said to-night that Senator Quay would go into the convention as a substitute, and that he will be chairman of the Finance Committee. Quay is a member of the Finance Committee of the Republican State committee, will, it is said, take Senator Quay's place in the national committee. If the convention is allowed to choose Mr. Quay as its successor, James S. Fruit, of Mercer county, will undoubtedly be the choice. The general impression, however, is that the candidates will name the Finance chairman, and in that event Lieutenant-governor Waters will probably be the man.

Call for a Convention of Real Farmers.

ST. LOUIS, Aug. 18.—The executive committee appointed by the Fort Worth Farmers' Alliance convention, with U. S. Hall, president of the Missouri Alliance, as chairman, has issued a circular to the "members of the Farmers' Alliance and Industrial Union, and of the farmers and laborers of the United States," calling a convention of the members of those bodies who are in accord with the resolutions passed at the Fort Worth meeting. The convention will be held in St. Louis on Sept. 15. Nearly all the railroads have agreed to make red rates for the convention. The basis of representation will be fixed at three delegates from each county in the State, and the jurisdiction of the National Alliance. It will be remembered that the resolutions referred to above reject the sub-treasury plan and approve the farmers to vote against all schemes that would make a loan establishment of the United States Treasury. The circular concludes as follows: "This meeting will be a protest on the part of the farmers of the United States against the policy of the Farmers' Alliance and Industrial Union, and of the farmers and laborers of the United States, who have no interest in the sub-treasury plan, and who are in accord with the resolutions passed at the Fort Worth meeting. It is an effort to get out of it. This is an effort on the part of the conservative members of the Farmers' Alliance to emancipate the Farmers' Alliance from the control of scheming politicians and designating demagogues. That we will win this effort, we entertain no doubt." The letter is signed by U. S. Hall, chairman, of Hubbard, Mo., W. S. McAllister, Canton, Miss., and W. L. Sargent, Rayner, Tex.

Nebraska Independents.

HASTINGS, Neb., Aug. 18.—The Independent State convention organized this afternoon by the election of State Senator Paynter as temporary chairman. Nearly seven hundred delegates, representing seventy-six of the eighty-nine counties, were in attendance. After the appointment of a committee on credentials addresses were delivered by Congressman Kerm, of the Third district, President Powell, of the National Alliance, State Master Workman Deck and others. Ex-Senator Van Wyck, who headed the Otto county delegation, refused to respond to a call for a speech and the convention took a recess at 8 p. m.

Upon resuming at 8:30, the temporary chairman, Van Wyck, moved that nominations be proceeded with, which called forth many protests, and after a long waiting period the case of the platform should be adopted before nominations were made. While the committee on resolutions was formulating the platform speeches were made by Van Wyck and Joy Burrows.

The platform indorses the Cincinnati document, pronounces in favor of the national bank, but not the substitution of greenbacks therefor; advocates government loans of money to private individuals; calls for free and unlimited coinage of silver; government control of railroads, steamship lines, telegraph and telephone; condemns Congress for its extravagance in other lines and failure to provide for old soldiers; demands that Congress to declare forfeited title to all land in the United States held by aliens and by railroad in excess of actual needs, and close by reiterating the fealty of farmers to the cause of the people and the old soldier.
